Notary Services

Notary Services

Several members of Genuine Law Firm have been authorized by the Ministry of Justice (MINIJUST) to provide Notary Services. Previously, only designated and sworn public notaries working within centralized and decentralized government institutions were permitted to authenticate documents in Rwanda. However, the increasing demand for fast and efficient notarial services prompted the Government of Rwanda to enact legislation allowing private legal practitioners to offer these services.

These Notaries are empowered to offer the following services:

1. Certification of documents authenticity

Some documents are genuine, but their authenticity may not be known to anyone other than the issuer and the holder. Upon request from interested parties, and after conducting all necessary legal verification, our notaries can certify the authenticity of a document before it is used.

2. Issuance of copies of deeds drawn

Some deeds are drafted by or before the notary, who retains an original copy of the document. Upon request from beneficiaries or other qualified individuals, our notaries issue copies of all deeds they have prepared or witnessed, in accordance with the law.

3. Certification of wills

Our notaries are authorized to certify various types of wills and to authenticate them in accordance with the laws governing succession and wills. The wills subject to certification include those involving movable and immovable property, as well as other assets that may be bequeathed by the owner. We also authenticate and certify wills related to the assignment of rights and liabilities.

4. Authentication of signatures

The law empowers our notaries to authenticate various types of signatures, depending on the issuer and the intended use of the document. We ensure professionalism and full legal compliance at every stage of the authentication process.

5. Authentication of private deeds

Our notaries are authorized to authenticate private deeds legally executed between individuals, companies, or other organizations whenever authentic documentation is required for filing or use. The deeds that may be authenticated include, but are not limited to, contracts, resolutions of Boards of Directors or companies, minutes of meetings, and many others.
